The clean window refused to agree.

Every required fund cell was present. Bitcoin rose while Ether and dollar-stablecoin circulation fell.

FROM SOURCE ROWS TO A BREADTH TEST

Completeness passed. Agreement did not.

October 30 was excluded because several displayed fund cells still contained dashes.

> Complete data can still describe a split system.

The same window. Opposite paths.

Five complete sessions produced a large Bitcoin inflow, a nearly offsetting Ether outflow and a small positive net.

SERIES	FIVE-SESSION SUM	DIRECTION
Bitcoin products	+$302.9m	+
Ether products	-$271.3m	-
Compatible net	+$31.6m	+

The net retained 10.4% of the Bitcoin inflow after the Ether outflow was subtracted.

> +$31.6m was valid arithmetic, not proof of breadth.

S1 · S2 · S4 | 23, 26, 27, 28 and 29 October · US$m

A plus sign can come from cancellation.

The two large component paths nearly offset. The surviving net was much smaller than either one.

WHAT BUILT THE +$31.6M NET

Bars compare magnitudes. The signed calculation is +302.9m - 271.3m = +31.6m.

> Keep the parts visible before naming the aggregate.

The third gauge used another clock.

Stablecoin circulation can add directional context, but it cannot join the listed-product sum.

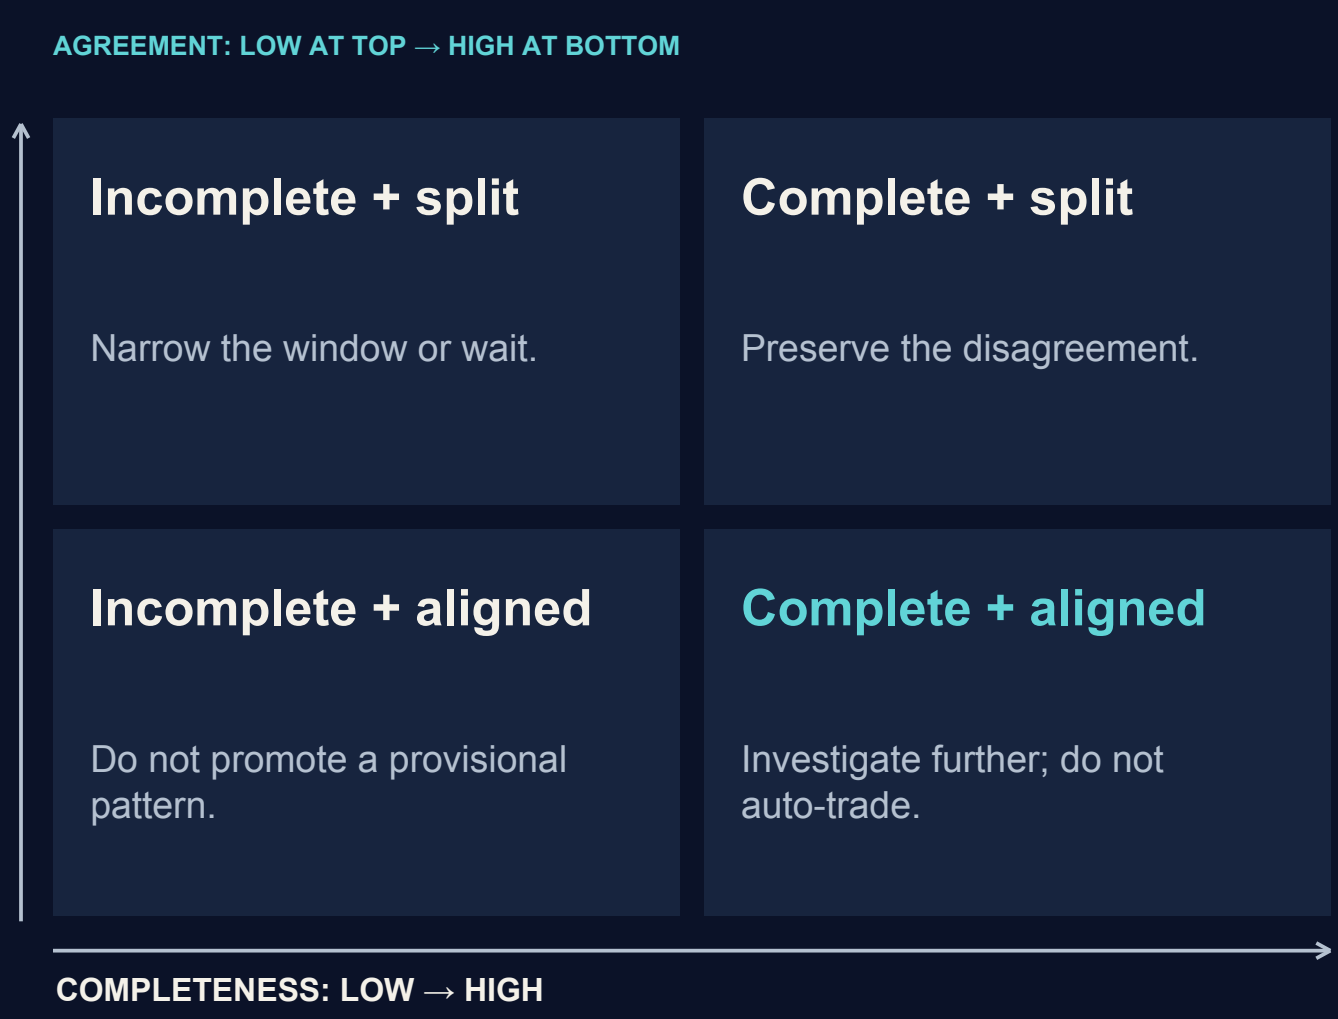

LISTED PRODUCTS	USD STABLECOINS
A flow	A stock
US$ millions	US$ billions
Five U.S. sessions	Two calendar endpoints
Bitcoin + / Ether -	Change: -$3.125bn

The sign vector was (+,-,-). No transfer between the three rails was observed.

> Compare direction without inventing one pool of money.

Two axes.
Four honest states.

Data readiness and directional agreement answer different questions.

A complete window can still belong in the disagreement box.

A clean disagreement is still useful.

The common window removes missing-data ambiguity and leaves a smaller, sharper conclusion.

01

1 · Preserve

Keep missing cells missing; never recode dashes as zero.

02

2 · Align

Use one complete session set for comparable flows.

03

3 · Separate

Retain each component before inspecting a net total.

04

4 · Bound

Keep stocks outside flow arithmetic; compare direction only.

05

5 · Stop

Agreement earns investigation, never an automatic trade.

The reviewed evidence does not establish motive, transfer between rails or a price path.

> Better evidence can narrow a claim without making it bullish or bearish.

The data were ready. The system was split.

Bitcoin product flows rose. Ether product flows and dollar-stablecoin circulation fell.

ONE STATUS

Are the rows complete?

Are the rows complete, and do the measures agree?

Keep readiness and meaning on separate lines of the dashboard.

Dated provider estimates · No trade · No price forecast

> Do not let “complete” sound like “confirmed.”